Jordan Bush, Douglas Almond, Melvin Galloway, Ernest Saucier and others behind the tree. The cedar tree is about 20 feet high and was donated by Mr.

and Mrs. C.J. Tudury. The first attempt to push the evergreen upright, as shown here, was unsuccessful and the tree was finally raised into a standing position by using a winch and ropes pulled from the city hall balcony. ## MCI layoff affects 229 at Stennis

BY D.C. HARVILL
The Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant, operated by Mason-Chamberlain Incorporated at Stennis Space Center, may be shut down by the Army due to production of "an abnormally high number" of faulty projectiles, according to an employee of the plant. A spokesman for the Army late Wednesday denied that any such closure is imminent. The 229 employees of the the-employee said. According to Richard Madison, civilian executive assistant with the Army, "The plant has been having a problem with grenade bodies being cracked in the loading process," calling for the temporary closure of LAP. The plant, however, is not being shut down by the Army. "There is no truth to that," he said. "The Army said everything we've produced since December

Load, Assembly and Pack (LAP) section of the plant were informed Tuesday that their section would be shut down that afternoon because the plant had been producing flawed grenades and the closure eventually could affect the entire plant, according to the employee, who requested anonymity. Army personnel were supposed to meet with MCI President Dick Auger Wednesday to discuss the problems with the plant, and the company would have three days to correct them,

5 is suspect, and we average about 1,000 projectiles per day, the employee said. "My estimate would be that one-fifth of the total production is bad."

The employee speculated that the contract would be picked up by another company should MCI lose it, or that MCI would be allowed to retain the contract if it removed its upper-level management.

Should the entire plant be shut down, approximately 1,700 people would lose their jobs.

According to the anonymous source, the company is required to produce a set number of projectiles by the end of the year, but has had trouble meeting their quota, so they have been running bad parts through the assembly line in an attempt to catch up.

"They took the gamble and lost. They were only considering numbers, not quality," the employee said.

A spokesman from MCI president Dick Auger's office deferred comment to the Army, stating that as an Army contractor the military agency was

School boards to meet on consolidation again

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board has tentatively set a joint meeting with the Hancock County School Board for further discussion of consolidation. The proposed meeting time and place, 7 p.m. tonight at the county school district offices at Stennis Airport, was not acceptable to the Hancock board, who met Tuesday afternoon. Members of that board stated that they wished to delay a joint meeting until they obtain further information from their attorney, Joseph Gex.

That information, which concerns the formation of various types of school districts including consolidated districts, is expected to be available on Friday. The Hancock Board has therefore suggested a meeting for Monday, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. at the Hancock offices.

Although the Bay-Waveland board could take no action on it Monday night because board members had not yet had a chance to read the document, a resolution asking for consolidation of the high school has been proposed by the Hancock Board.

The resolution gives no details on how the joint effort would work but provides several probable results of such a move, including "financial savings for both districts and an expanded curriculum for the students of both districts."

According to the resolution, expansion would be possible to the extent that the remedial education currently required by the State Department of Education could become more accessible to the students who need it, and the regular curriculum could be split into three divisions, vocational-occupational-technical, regular education and college preparatory.

Such a move would foster enrichment classes and place both districts in a better position to take advantage of the proximity of Pearl River Community College facilities for purposes other than vocational-technical, the resolution states.

The resolution proposes that all seventh and eighth grade students from two of the Hancock elementary schools, Gulfview and Charles B. Murphy, and from Bay Junior High School in the Bay-Waveland system, attend the current Bay Senior High School, which would create an enrollment of about 523 students in 1990 using current enrollment figures.

The joint high school would include grades nine through 12 and would house about 1,334 students in 1990 in the high school complex currently planned for construction at Stennis Airport.

Attached to the resolution were the enrollment figures used to reach the totals cited in the resolution, a list of comprehensive high school courses

DRUG ARREST

Two Picayune residents have been arrested on drug charges in Hancock County. Hancock County Sheriff's Department investigator Glen Strong said Sherry L. Bochman, 28, and Eric W. Bochman, 28, both of 122 South Green Avenue, were arrested at about 3 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of a Kiln business. Both were charged with sale of a controlled substance, in this case marijuana, and were released on $5,000 bond each, the investigator said. About three-quarters of a pound of marijuana was seized by authorities, along with $1,050 in cash. Assisting in the arrest were Deputies Steve Garber and Billy Pepperman.

RAPE ARREST

A Kiln man has been arrested by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department on charges of rape. Murphy John LaBauve, 29, of Kiln, was arrested Tuesday for allegedly raping a woman in Kiln on December 9. LaBauve is being held in the Hancock County Jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond.

ACCIDENT

A Hancock County Sheriff's Department patrol car was badly damaged Monday morning in an accident on Interstate 10 near Diamondhead. While the unit was parked across the east bound lane of the interstate with its blue lights on to direct traffic around an accident, Pad Li Chen of Biloxi drove her Nissan into the passenger side of the car, according to investigator Delbert Seay. Deputy Willie Lee was out of the car at the time of the collision. Chen was issued a citation for failure to yield.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

This was about the time of the year my three brothers and I, when we were youngsters, would begin searching the 'woods' in our area for a Christmas tree.

It was our family tradition to cut a pine tree in our neighboring woods on the edge of Waveland's old city limits on the day before Christmas and decorate it for the big day.

There were times when we would even have to cut several trees before we would get one to our liking. As youngsters we always looked forward to our Christmas tree selection and decoration.

Traditions and times have now changed and many families decorate days and even weeks before Christmas.

Not many pine trees are used now as Christmas trees as there are a wide assortment of imported, locally grown and artificial trees available.

Traditions change, but the true meaning of Christmas is the same today as it was when you and I were youngsters.

Saturday is the big Community Car Wash Day with proceeds going to the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund.

The Car Wash will be held at The Peoples Bank's (formerly Gulf National) parking lot on U.S. 90 and Carroll Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

State Senator Gene Taylor said the Car Wash would be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and he was expecting a host of volunteers to help with the effort in addition to local political leaders.

One thing needed will be a large number of cars and trucks to be washed.

Taylor also reported there may even be a high school football team car wash-off between St. Stanislaus and Bay High.

Dick Stapleton and Bob Noonan of Channel 13 are also scheduled to do some car washing.

We hope to see you at the Car Wash on Saturday. Remember, donations from the Car Wash go to the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Waveland officials increase utilities instead of property tax

To the Editor:

Do you recall the story of Robin Hood and his Merry Men? They stole from the rich and gave to the poor (or so the story goes).

In Waveland we have a group, you might say they're just the opposite from Robin Hood—they take from the poor to favor the rich.

Although the Mississippi Legislature long ago sought to protect homeowners from greedy politicians by limiting the amount of taxes (property) that can be raised per year, the Waveland City Fathers circumvented these limits by raising minimum water and sewer charges nearly $200 per household in 1988 while bragging, "No tax increases."

Sure, all city employees deserve a raise, but that should be funded through taxes. Only home owners or renters pay the increased service charges—apartment dwellers, those on private wells, and owners of undeveloped land pay nothing extra. Businesses can write off these "tax" increases should be cut back.

Taint fair! taint right! You might even call it tainted money 'cause it taint taxes.

Happy Holidays,

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Mississippi today negates Hollywood's stereotype

Can Gov. Ray Mabus put out all the image-scorching brushfires the movie "Mississippi Burning" is obviously going to start around the country?

My own feeling is that it's going to be an impossible task. But the effort Mabus is putting forth to show the world that there is a "new" Mississippi far different from the 1960's stereotype in the film is certainly a noble one.

Most of the Mississippi governors I've known would have reacted far differently to a movie that portrayed one of the worst instances of the state's ugly racist past. They would have sat back and hurled epithets at Hollywood and Orion Pictures for joining the conspiracy to besmirch Mississippi's name.

That may be good for home consumption, at least for those who would rekindle the fires of the old Confederacy. But it would do nothing to demonstrate to the rest of the country that Mississippi can change, and has changed.

Mabus is, of course, keenly aware of the negative fallout that a movie based on the 1964 slaying of three civil rights workers in Neshoba County can cause just at a time he is on the offensive to project his own national image as a young, progressive new leader in what was once a closed society in Mississippi.

Of course, it's painful to be reminded of the bad old days in Mississippi during the 1960s which "Mississippi Burning" seems destined to do. From all indications, "Mississippi Burning" will be a strong contender for a 1988 Academy Award. Actor Gene Hackman as the ex-Mississippi sheriff turned FBI agent is already being boomed for an Oscar for his starring role in the film.

The sordid facts of the slaying of Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney are shocking enough to one's sensibilities, as I vividly recall from covering the case and the subsequent trial of 18 white men charged under federal civil rights statutes enacted after the Civil War.

But top of the facts of the case with a generous layer of fiction as director Alan Parker has done and you evoke a visceral reaction of horror from a wide audience. Parker, who is British, admits that is precisely what he set out to do.

Actually, the decision to allow "Mississippi Burning" to be filmed in Mississippi had been made during the administration of Mabus' predecessor, Bill Allain.

But Mabus had been very cooperative with representatives of Orion Pictures which made the film and he had Hackman and several other principal persons with the movie crew to dinner at the governor's mansion.

Mississippi operates from a deficit position in trying to convey a better image to the nation. Too long the state seemed voiceless on the national level except for fiery racists such as James K. Vardaman, Theodore G. Bilbo and Ross Barnett.

The state's burden has been made heavy by the roll call which reads: Emmett Till, Mack Charles Parker, Medgar Evers, Vernon Dahmer, Michael Schwerner, James Chaney, Andrew Goodman and other civil rights martyrs who put on trial our dual system of justice.

But Mississippi deserves the chance to be reevaluated in the context of the remarkable strides in race relations which have taken place in more recent times.

The most dramatic evidence of a "new" Mississippi is the election, and landslide reelection, of U.S. Rep. Mike Espy as the first black congressman from this state since the post-Reconstruction era of the last century.

Espy proved several times last week, in a round-table meeting with some of the Washington press corps who had covered the civil rights era in the South, and again on NBC's "Today" show, that he is the best witness to change in Mississippi that the state can produce.

One other recent event—the selection of Leslie Daniels, a black educator, who spent 23 years in the school ranks, as superintendent of McComb's racially-balanced public school system—deserves mention as proof of how far Mississippians have come.

A quarter of a century ago, McComb had become known as "worst town in America" because of nightly racist bombings and terrorist acts.

Free and peaceful future hinges on US-Soviet relations

Recently, I met with Soviet President Gorbachev for the fifth time. Together we stood, under the gaze of Lady Liberty, speaking of the prospects of peace for the peoples of our two nations and for all the world. Yes, since our first summit in Geneva three years ago, we have traveled a great journey that has seen remarkable progress—a journey we continue to travel together. I am pleased that the Soviet Union has accepted our offer of humanitarian aid in the wake of their devastating earthquake tragedy.

This has also been a period of important change inside the Soviet Union. The greater openness permitted by Moscow can be found in films, art and literature. There is greater tolerance for those seeking to peacefully assemble, and the official press carries more independent opinions and factual reporting.

And just a few years ago, who would have anticipated seeing a Soviet leader stand before the world community, heralding a plan for economic restructuring and military redeployments, and promising to meet the world community's "highest standards" of human rights? If this vision is realized and these promises are turned into deeds, we would be witnessing a dramatic change in the Soviet system, a long-awaited break with the past, and the opening of a new era in international affairs.

Certainly the Soviet reforms have their limits, and brave dissenters within that country who have sought a fuller measure of openness continue to be dealt with harshly. But I was encouraged by the new promises of reform that Mr. Gorbachev made before the United Nations and hope to see these and past promises translated into permanent institutional changes that will signal to the peoples of the Soviet Union and the world a courageous commitment to a new path of democratization.

We already see unprecedented diversity in Eastern Europe, with some countries pursuing reforms that go even beyond the Soviet example, while other countries continue to lag behind. We hope to see the day when all countries of Eastern Europe enjoy the freedom, democracy and self-determination that their peoples have long awaited.

Just a decade ago, some intellectuals widely predicted what they called "convergence"—the idea that the democratic world and the Communist world would merge into one hybrid system. The main question amounted to how much freedom would democratic nations have to give up in the bargain. But instead, the Free World held firm to its democratic values, cleaving to truths deeply rooted in Western culture and our Judeo-Christian tradition. Moreover, we spoke openly of the moral superiority of our ideal of freedom. We candidly criticized the violations of human rights occurring behind the Iron Curtain. We rebuilt our defenses and with our allies worked to counter international aggression by our totalitarian adversaries. And we exhibited that scarcest of commodities: patience.

And our steadfastness, our policies, our whole approach has borne fruit. Perhaps the most dramatic achievement came one year ago, when Mr. Gorbachev and I signed the historic I.N.F. Treaty to eliminate an entire class of U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles.

Soon, the Prime Ministers of two of our key NATO allies, Turkey and Italy, will visit Washington. And certainly, along with other issues, we plan to discuss Mr. Gorbachev's visit and the strategic situation in Europe.

For some time now, the Soviet bloc has had overwhelming superiority in conventional forces in Europe. So, we welcome the Soviet force reductions that are promised. But let us remember this: Even after these redeployments are completed in 1991, the Warsaw Pact will still have a large conventional advantage—an edge of about 5-to-2 in tanks and artillery, and some 300,000 more troops. These unilateral reductions would, however, give a long-awaited encouragement for our efforts to achieve the genuine balance in conventional forces that would assure greater security and stability in Europe.

Well, in these brightest of times, let us recall that during the darkest days of World War II, when hopes for the Free World seemed most bleak, Winston Churchill rallied us to carry on, saying that, "We have not journeyed all this way...because we are made of sugar candy." By summoning all their strength and courage, and by pulling together, the Allies prevailed. The war was won.

The decades following World War II were filled with political tensions and threats to world freedom. But in recent years, we have seen hopes for a free and peaceful future restored and the chance for a new U.S.-Soviet relationship emerge.

To the American people and to our allies, I would echo Churchill and say: We have not come this far through a lack of strength or any weakness in our resolve. Nor has there been anything inevitable about what we have achieved. The unity, confidence, power and firmness of the democracies has brought us forward, and maintaining a strong alliance will keep us moving forward.

Recommendations made by MEC on Jr. colleges

In a report presented to a legislative subcommittee, the Mississippi Economic Council identified organizational and financial problems which MEC believes limits development of the state's junior college system.

MEC vice president Nancy Dear, appearing before the higher education subcommittee of the Senate's Select Committee on Government Reorganization, explained that the purpose of the council's study was to evaluate the junior college system and offer recommendations which would be used to strengthen the programs and the colleges.

Dear noted in her testimony that "Mississippi's public community and junior colleges are making major contributions to the education, training, and development of the state's human resources. Yet they have been hampered in their development by both organizational and financial structure."

The MEC study examined the governance, finance, mission, branches, enrollment trends, and salaries of the junior colleges and offered the following recommendations:

*The mission of the community and junior colleges should be more clearly defined by the Legislature.

*As long as the state is providing a major share of funding—55 percent of total funding—it should exercise greater oversight of the system.

*The junior college districts should be realigned to reflect changes in the state's population and tax base.

*A new formula for representation on local boards of trustees should be established.

*Members of local boards of trustees should be appointed by the board of supervisors in each county.

*The appointment of junior college presidents by local boards should be approved by the State Board for Community and Junior Colleges.

*Within limits set by law, the board of supervisors of each county in the district should be required to levy the uniform millage necessary to meet the budget.

*Economic Development activities of junior colleges should be integrated into the statewide economic development plan.

*A major objective of Mississippi's junior college system should be an increased commitment to adult literacy education with the junior colleges as the primary delivery system for this service.

Mark Saturday as 'A Day in the Bay'

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Rediscover your own city! That opportunity is offered Saturday by the Hancock County Historical Society, Bay Business Association and City of Bay St. Louis as they offer the day-long event "A Day in the Bay" December 17.

Festivities will begin at 10 a.m. as the Pass-to-Bay Run finishes at North Beach and DeMontluzin Streets.

The Historical Society headquarters on Court Street, next to Ruth's Bakery, will offer descriptive history guides to guests. Two members, Cindy Lowe and Cynthia Dicktaban, will dress in period designs which they created for the occasion and serve as hostesses at the Kate Lobrano house, 108 Cue Street. Cookies, punch and coffee will be offered to visitors.

The steps of the Main Street United Methodist Church will be the setting for musical presentations by a group of senior citizens at noon. The Bay Senior High Show Choir will perform at 1 p.m. and the Methodist church choir will sing at 4 p.m.

Open house will be offered at most downtown businesses.

A tree lighting is scheduled for 5 p.m. at Bay St. Louis City Hall. Santa will be on hand to greet children.

A 6 p.m., candlelight community caroling will be staged in front of Ruth's Bakery on Court Street. Sherry Schwabacher will lead singing, accompanied by Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. on piano. The public is invited to join them.

HANGING WELCOME WREATH—Bay Business Association president Jim Thompson and Hancock County Historical Society member Pat Cucullu put finishing touches on decorations at the Kate Lobrano home on Cue Street, which will be open to the public Saturday as part of "A Day in the Bay" celebration. that could be made available through the expansion, and a letter to Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph from Pearl River Community College Dean of Academic Affairs Willis H. Lott.

Lott's letter expressed a willingness to provide more classes of varying types for the students living in Hancock County and to expand to sites in addition to Stennis Airpark and John C. Stennis Space Center.

In a related part of its business another project, the remaining improvements on the high school and the board needs to know about consolidation in order to decide whether to go on with the bidding procedure for that work; however, Board Member Chuck Benvenutti said he feels the improvements are still needed even if the two boards decide to consolidate.

Benvenutti also pointed out that if the construction money is not used, it may be repaid rather than turned over to the county.

Board Attorney Lucien Gex said it is possible that the bond issue money may not be used for anything other than the purpose for which the bond issue was approved.

Benvenutti was in favor of a public forum designed to inform the public about some of the alternatives of consolidation, but mostly to gather their input.

Carter said he would favor, since the board members' addresses had already been published in a recent advertisement supporting Oge, that people write to the board members to explain how they feel about the consolidation. Monday, the Bay-Waveland board agreed to provide facilities at Bay Senior High for night classes taught through the college. The classes will begin at the opening of the 1988-89 school term.

Although Bay-Waveland Superintendent of Education Roger Oge said he feels the board should explore the many forms of consolidation available, he agreed that a meeting with the Hancock board should be scheduled as soon as possible to discuss the possibility of a consolidated high school.

Bay-Waveland Board President Betty Diboll said she is willing to discuss the pros and cons of consolidating high schools, but she is not willing to

ST. ANN'S NEWS

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.

Life is a journey, not a home; a road, not a city of habitation; and the enjoyments and blessings we have are but inns on the roadside of life where we may be refreshed for a moment, that we may, with new strength, press on to the end—to the rest that remaineth for the people of God.

—Bonar
Father Stack wishes to extend his thanks and appreciation to all who contributed last Sunday to the Retirement Fund Collection for the Sisters and Brothers.

Christmas Day, Dec. 25, Sunday, St. John Church, Lakeshore, 9 a.m.

There will be no further CCD classes until Saturday, Jan. 7.

The last CYO meeting of 1988 will be 7 p.m., Monday, Dec. 19.

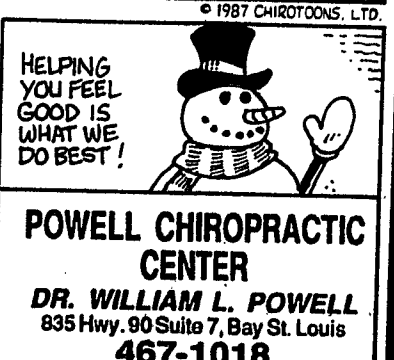

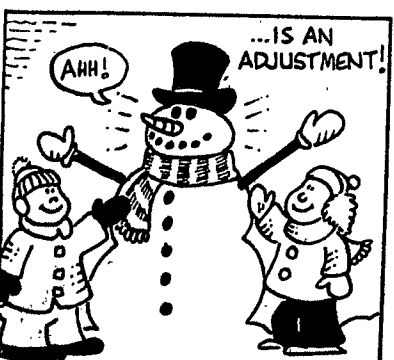

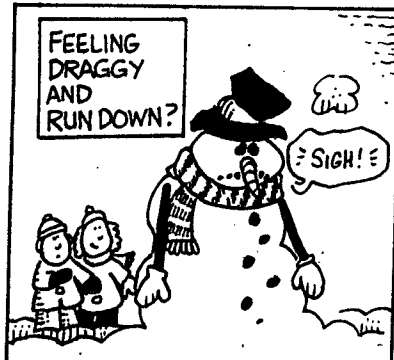

St. Ann-St. John Altar Society hosted their annual Christmas Social last Wednesday evening in the parish hall for members and their guests. Highlight of the pot-luck dinner and festivities was the installation of new officers who will serve for the next two-year tenure.

After thanking the ladies for their support for the past years, especially the outgoing officers, guest of honor Father Stack installed the newly elected officers.

Ladies installed were Mrs. Mamie O'Quinn, president; Mrs. Dot Neubig, vice-president; Mrs. Irene Graff, secretary; and Mrs. Lois Saucier and Mrs. Marian Traub, chaplain.

send students to the airport, while Board Member Danny Carter said he was interested in finding out if, when the Bay-Waveland District builds a planned classroom addition at Bay High and uses up its bond issue money, "they (the Hancock district) are still interested in working with us."

The meeting needs to be expedited, Diboll said, because the Bay-Waveland district has consolidation.

The board members unanimously approved publication of the addresses.

Depending on what happens at the meeting with the Hancock board, the public forum has been set for 7 p.m. Jan. 5. Due to the number of people expected to attend, the meeting will be conducted in the junior high auditorium.

their public affairs agent.

"The management of MCI made the decision to put the LAP employees on furlough. The Army did not direct the company to conduct the furlough. They took it upon themselves to do so while they correct the problem," Madison said.

The furlough, or temporary absence from the work place, is to run through Friday, according to Madison.

Recently the LAP section of the plant has experienced numerous layoffs because, allegedly, the output of grenade casings has not been sufficient to keep up with the demands of LAP.

A spokesman for Congressman Trent Lott said, "I think if that were the case we would know about it, but as far as I am aware it is not the case."

Redfish to be tagged, released in aquaculture research project

Almost 1,000 redfish will be released into Back Bay Biloxi Friday as part of a joint research project between Mississippi State University, Mississippi Power Company and the state Bureau of Marine Resources.

About half of the fish will be tagged by the BMR with a telephone number for fishermen to call if they catch the redfish. The fish were grown as part of MSU's ongoing aquaculture research at MPC's Plant Jack Watson in Gulfport.

"By tagging the redfish we hope to research age and growth patterns in the wild," Mike Murphy MSU's project manager said. "We also want to follow redfish migration patterns—where and how far the fish range from the release point—and we want to gauge the impact of the release on sport fishing by seeing how many are actually caught."

MPC and MSU set up the research center in 1987 to study the possibility of raising redfish in captivity for commercial purposes. The fish to be released Friday represent a portion of the first crop raised in warm water ponds fed by the electric generating plant. Other fish are being retained for further study.

"Our sponsorship of this research has been aimed at helping to start a new industry—pond raised redfish," John Hutchinson, MPC spokesman said. "These fish have helped us so now we are going to help them by giving them their freedom."

The fish to be tagged range in length from 8 to 12 inches and number about 500. The other 500 redfish are from 5 to 6 inches long and are too small to tag.

"We hope the public will cooperate and contact the BMR when tagged fish are caught," Murphy said. "A project like this depends basically on the fishermen taking the time to report catches."

When tagged fish are caught and reported researchers will study how much the fish have grown in the wild since being released, how long the fish have lived and if they favor some locations over others.

Hutchinson said the utility liked the idea of releasing the fish for both research and recreational reasons.

"It gives the scientific community a chance to build a data base on a valuable natural resource," he said. "And, it gives the fishermen a better opportunity to enjoy their sport. Both interests are well served."

Both MPC and MSU said future fish released were possible as studies continue at the aquaculture center.

Bay varsity takes Bearcats, 62-55

By Kanta' Haynes

BHS Correspondent

On Tuesday, Dec. 6 the Bay High varsity and junior varsity basketball teams hosted the Long Beach Bearcats in the Tiger Dome, resulting in one victory for the varsity Tigers.

The Tigers took a 62-55 win over the Long Beach Bearcats while placing three Tigers in double figures and out-rebounding the Bearcats, 39-34.

Leading Bay High to a victorious game was junior Micah Necaise with 18 points, 10 rebounds and four assists. Adding 16 points, 11 caroms, and six blocked shots was junior Cedric Walker. Mike Kennedy also added 10 points and five rebounds.

Other Tigers contributing to Bay High's victory were Freddie Necaise with eight points, Will Seymour and Mike Scharp added four points each and David Weems chipped in two points.

"Our guys showed determination and maturity by putting together a really good second half," commented Tiger coach Mike Ladner.

"We were led by a smart man-top-man defense to give us an exciting victory."

The Bearcats were led by Jason Sharp with 24 points and Curtis Grant with 10 points and eight rebounds.

In the varsity girls' contest the Lady Tigers played a hard-fought game but didn't reach the win column. The Lady Bearcats took a 45-30 ball game.

The Lady Tigers out-rebounded Long Beach 35-21 and took a two-point lead in the first half of the game. In the third quarter the Bearcats out-scored the Lady Tigers by eight points to secure the Bearcat win.

The leading scorers were senior Deborah Deloach with eight points and junior Kinta Ladner with eight points, seven rebounds and four steals.

Also adding to the Lady Tiger effort were seniors Tunisia McKay with eight points and Dedra McGowan with four points, four assists, and eight steals. Freshman Yolanda Jackson chipped in two points.

"Things didn't go well for us tonight," stated Ladner. "We took good shots, but they just didn't fall in the basket."

Leading the Lady Bearcats were Rosalind Slavings with 21 points and Sonia Snerling with 10 points.

The junior varsity was led by Calvin Thigpen with 15 points and James Mayfield with 14 points.

The junior varsity dropped a 65-62 defeat to Long Beach.

Spring season slated by Bay Soccer League

The Bay Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) Board met Sunday, Dec. 11 to set the Spring BAYS Soccer Season. The first games of the season will begin on Saturday, Jan. 14. The last regularly scheduled games will be March 18 and 19.

There will be post season BAYS Tournaments held April 1 and 2. District competition is scheduled for the second weekend of April, and the State Championship will be in Jackson the second weekend of May.

The BAYS Soccer Board also filled vacancies on teams from players on waiting lists. All age groups were closed out except for Under-6 players, Under-14 girls, Under-16 boys, and Under-19 boys.

Any qualified applicant in these age groups may contact Bernard Tusa at 467-3999, Richard Flowers at 467-0474, or Les Fillingame at 467-5021 to apply. ## SSC advances to 3-0 in District 4A play

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw varsity basketball team increased its record to 12-2 with a convincing 83-67 District win over the visiting Hancock North Central Hawks Tuesday evening in Rock-A-Chaw gym.

The win moves SSC into first place in the District 4A standings with a 3-0 record. Earlier in the season HNC defeated SSC by two points in a non-district game.

Leading the way for SSC were Chris Perrone with 26 points and 13 rebounds, followed by Shannon Garrett with 21 points and five rebounds. Guard Gregg Schruff had 14 points and 13 assists.

For the Hawks, Sherwin Ladner led all scorers with 27 points.

The Rocks held a 22-12 lead at the end of the first quarter, and enjoyed a 43-29 halftime advantage.

"Early in the game our defense allowed HNC only one shot at the basket. We controlled the defensive boards which allowed our fast-break to click," said coach Genin.

The Hawks pulled to within 10 in the third quarter 55-45, but then the Rocks scored seven unanswered points to sew up the victory.

"Our team played an overall great game, both rebounding and defensively," said Genin. "Greg Schruff played a super game. He really took charge out there."

St. Stanislaus' next game is a district contest against d'Iberville Friday night at d'Iberville.

7th and 8th grade Rocks dominate HNC tournament

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws' 7th and 8th grade basketball team defeated the previously unbeaten Long Beach Bearcats 36-34 to win the Hancock North Central Junior High Basketball Tournament this past weekend.

The Rock-A-Chaws, coached by Rory Rafferty, upped their record to 6-1, and handed the Bearcats their first loss. Long Beach is now 12-1 for the season.

In the finals, SSC's Derek Inkol had 17 points, followed by Jeff Bishop with 14 points. Long Beach led by as much as seven points in the second period.

SSC pulled to within two points at the half on a three-pointer by Inkol and an outside shot by Pete Ritten. Long Beach held a 24-22 halftime advantage.

The Rock-A-Chaws began the third quarter on a hot streak to take the lead but the Bearcats fought back and led 31-30 at the end of three quarters. "The key to the victory was our defense in the fourth quarter," said Coach Rafferty.

St. Stanislaus opened the tournament with a 48-20 victory over host team HNC. Inkol led all scorers with 18, while Jeff Bishop had 10 and Danny Jackson hit for eight points. The game was very close the first half, with the Rocks taking a 16-10 halftime advantage.

The Rocks pulled away in the fourth period, as the full-court press they used wore down the Hawks.

In their second game of the tournament, SSC narrowly defeated Gulfview 400-38 behind Inkol's 22 points. The Rocks held a 15-8 first quarter lead, but Gulfview hit for 16 unanswered points to take a 24-15 lead in the second quarter. The Rocks managed to close the gap to 24-22 at halftime. Gulfview led 34-33 at the end

Transition takes its toll on CEHS basketball season

The 1988-89 Coast Episcopal High School Raider basketball schedule is in full swing. Graduation has taken its toll but the returning players provide an experienced nucleus.

After winning a championship last year, this year's 0-2 beginning is frustrating but not unexpected.

Senior Beau Lambert and juniors Billy Guice, Scott Covode, Jamie White and Hutson Lambert are expected to provide good ball handling and perimeter shooting. Freshman Chris Painter also provides excellent ball handling and a "three point" capability from the perimeter. Eighth graders Nathan Guice and George Hlass are gaining maturity with each game. This year will be a transition year.

The Coast Episcopal High School Junior Varsity team recently participated in a three-day tournament at Gulfview Junior High and displayed a better than anticipated performance. Freshman Chris Painter provided team leadership and eighth graders Nathan Guice, George Hlass and Eric Williams exhibited their development from last year's squad. Newcomers freshman Michael Burkett and eighth graders Randy Hartwell and Jason Miliken demonstrated their enthusiasm and willingness to learn.

LADY RAIDERS

The Lady Raiders are in a transition year after losing five starters to graduation. However, Coach Cal Smith continues to exhort his team and has high hopes that the season will reveal a fast, good ball handling team with emphasis on defense.

Returning players are Candace Payne, Megan Uram, Blair Shellnut and Ginny Edwards. Newcomers are Kristen Bub, Lauren Bentz, Carrie Covode and Jennifer Burkett.

Lady Wildcats break 5-game losing streak

Thursday's 92-76 win over South Division for Southwest Community College came at a good time for the Pearl River Community College Lady Wildcat basketball team.

Polly Kirkland, PRC's head coach, said the team played well in all phases of the game Thursday, adding, "I think that will give them a good feeling about coming back next semester."

The victory broke a five-game losing streak for the Lady Cats, and moved their record to 6-6 over-all and 1-2 in the South Division going into the Christmas break.

Following the win, Kirkland said she feels good about where the team is, despite the record. "I think they're (the players) are beginning to jell as a unit," she said.

She added that the tough start should help her team down the road. "The competition will help us a lot in the end," she said.

She said the team has cut down on its turnovers, and is handling the press defense much better than it did at the start of the season.

"We're handling the press 10 times better than we were earlier," Kirkland said.

Antrice McGill, who leads the team in scoring with just over 27 points per game, was ranked second in the nation in scoring in a recent junior/community college poll, while Mary Arvel was ranked second in the state in assists with 7.6 a game.

of three quarters, but Inkol hit a free throw with five seconds left to give the Rock-A-Chaws the victory.

Long Beach defeated Picayune in the other semifinal game to set up the championship game between the Rock-A-Chaws and the Bearcats.

Threatened bird species banded to track migration

Attention birdwatchers. A particular kind of songbird is on the loose, and Canadian biologist need your help in spotting it.

Earlier this year Canadian wildlife researchers banded over 1,000 young Loggerhead Shrikes, a songbird considered a threatened species in Canada. They did this in an effort to know more about where these birds spend the winter and their migration routes in getting there.

Scientists attached color bands to over 1,000 Shrikes. They are hoping that if bird-watchers across the United States spot these birds this winter, they will report the find to their local conservation agency.

Information received about the birds will be forwarded to Canadian officials, which will tell them something about the birds' winter habitats and how they got there.

If you spot a Loggerhead Shrike this winter, biologists are particularly interested in knowing the place where you saw the bird, the date it was seen, and the color of the band.

Loggerhead Shrikes from Manitoba received red bands, whole blue and yellow bands indicate birds from Saskatchewan. Birds with white bands came from Alberta.

The Loggerhead Shrike is gray above and white below, with a broad black line through the eye. The wings and tail are largely black. Beginners often confuse the bird with a Mockingbird.

During the winter in Mississippi, birders can expect to see Shrikes perched on telephone wires, fence posts, or maybe barbed wire near pastures and open fields.

George County turns back SSC in finals, 66-62

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws fell two baskets short of winning the d'Iberville Invitational Tournament this past weekend when they were narrowly defeated by the George County Rebels, 66-62.

The contest was broken open by George County in the second quarter when the Rebels scored six unanswered points on their fastbreak offense to pull ahead of the Rock-A-Chaws by ten points.

The Rock-A-Chaws fought back and closed the gap, but could not overtake the defending District 4A champion Rebels.

SSC defeated host team d'Iberville 75-69 on Friday night to set up the final confrontation with George County.

Named to the all-tournament team from St. Stanislaus were Shannon Garrett, Greg Schuff, and Bert Dean.

This was only the second loss of the season for St. Stanislaus, which now has an 11-2 overall record and a 2-0 district worksheet. District wins were against St. Martin and East Central.

In the East Central contest played last week, Chad Matthews led the way with 21 points, followed by Shannon Garrett with 15 points.

The Rocks broke the East Central game open in the third and fourth quarter when Coach Chuck Gerin's fastbreak offense caught fire and the aggressive defense caused several turnovers.

Against the Hornets, Coach Gerin credited the second half rebounding as a key factor, with the Rock-A-Chaws allowing East Central only one shot on offense.

George County always a powerhouse in basketball, had their hands full Saturday night with the Rock-A-Chaws.

"We did not do the things well that we have worked on all year," said Coach Gerin. "Our helping defense and defending the fastbreak, and our good ball movement, was not there and it cost us in the final score."

Go against the grain.

Cut down on salt.

Delta State swimmers third in Ga. Christmas invitational

Delta State University's men finished third and the women fifth for a combined third place in the Georgia State University Southeast Invitational Swimming and Diving meet.

Coach Ronnie Mayers' men had 436 points while the women had 243 for 679 points, thanks to Tedd Gilbert and Keith Salter's record-shattering performances.

Gilbert, a freshman from Spring, Texas, set meet records 100 and 500-yard freestyle events in times of 48.08 seconds and 4:51.23 respectively. He established two other Delta State records by winning the 200-yard free in 1:46.49 and by placing second in the 1,650-yard free in 17:06.90.

Salter, also a rookie, took the 100 and 200-yard backstrokes in DSU record times of 56.02 seconds and 2:02.74 respectively, while Phillip Vowell of Greenville established a school record with his 5:02.75 clocking in the 400-yard individual medley in which he placed third.

The DSU men's 400-yard free relay, 400-yard medley relay and 800-yard free relay teams, composed of Salter, Gilbert, Lonnie Ray of Bay St. Louis and Roland Shapley of Baton Rouge, La. (formerly of Greenville), turned in school record times of 3:20.95, 3:51.04 and 7:38.11 respectively.

Delta State is now off for semester exams and Christmas holidays and returns to action Jan. 20 against Tulane and the University of New Orleans in the Crescent City.

German classes create candy decorated houses

The German classes of Coast Episcopal High School help to make the Christmas season special by creating unique candy decorated houses for use in holiday decorations.

Each house, though similar, is different in its finished design says Karola Williams, German teacher.

Mrs. Williams, who was born in Frankfurt, Germany, learned the art of making gingerbread houses as a young child and has adapted those skills to cookie and candy houses.

The German students at Coast make the houses in school and sell them to raise money for class field trips and attendance at the State Foreign Language Fair.

To make a house, the students start with a cardboard base. They use at least 6 boxes of powdered sugar to make the "glue" for each house, plus a variety of hard candy, peppermint sticks, gumdrops, M&M's, and an assortment of cookies.

Many hours of work are needed for each house, but it's a labor of love, says Williams. Plus they get to eat a piece of candy or two in class and that helps.

Bay Catholic to present Christmas play

Bay Catholic Elementary invites the public to attend its Christmas play being presented at 7 p.m., Dec. 19, in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis. This year's play will be "Oh My Stars...It's Christmas!" which is adapted from the children's story, "Andro, the Star of Bethlehem" by Anne Claire.

In this story, Andro (a star in God's heavenly choir) is expelled by the other stars because he cannot sing. However, he is later chosen by God to become the Star of Bethlehem.

The play will cast all the children in grades one through six as stars, angels, shepherds, Wise Men, and citizens of Bethlehem. It is being presented under the direction of Mrs. Mary Howard, music director of Bay Catholic Elementary. Admission is free.

As an added feature, the St. Stanislaus Beginner Band will perform a selection of numbers before the play. This beginner band consists of sixth grade Bay Catholic students and is under the direction of Cathie Choina, band director at St. Stanislaus High School.

Stress an unwelcome guest to holiday festivities

When the "12 days of Christmas" run into weeks of endless shopping, cooking, decorating and attending events, holiday joy can easily turn into holiday stress.

Stress is defined as an event or sequence of events that calls for a change. The body's response is a stress reaction.

"Different things cause mental stress in a person's life, explained Geoff Kergosien, director of physical therapy at Hancock Medical Center.

"Usually stress is not caused by one single event, although one specific incident can be a stressor. Usually stress is a combination of events that will trigger some kind of physical reaction," he said.

Some examples of conditions worsened or caused by stress include ulcers, hypertension, strokes, backaches, headaches, sexual problems and insomnia. "Reactions to stress are highly individualized," Kergosien said.

"Some people seem to bounce back, while others allow the stressful events to get them down. It's amazing, about half the people I treat this time of year have physical problems which are stress-related."

During the holiday season, beginning with Thanksgiving and running through the celebration of the New Year, individuals and families are more likely to be stressed than at any other time of the year. But for different age groups, there are different problems, Kergosien said.

For the young to middle-aged groups, stress comes from hectic schedules that become even more crowded with six to eight weeks of holiday happenings. "The feeling is one of frustration as people try to keep with the pace of that kind of schedule added to the pressures of everyday work. People feel stressed as they try to meet numerous demands," Kergosien continued.

Then for mature adults or for individuals living alone, often there is the stress of being separated by distance or other circumstances from family members. The holiday season brings back memories of when the house was full of children, and now the time seems depressing.

People in all age groups sometimes feel the stress of financial strains during the holiday season, as the added expense of buying gifts appears to multiply each year. Much of this is due to standards people set in their own minds, Kergosien said.

To avoid unnecessary stress during this time, the physical therapist suggests learning to spot physical signs which mean mental or emotional anxiety.

"Poorly managed stress surfaces in many ways," Kergosien said. "Symptoms include headaches, fatigue, lack of concentration, depression, irritability, difficulty sleeping and eating disorders."

So how can individuals and families have the memorable holiday they long for and still avoid having stress as a holiday guest? Kergosien says by recognizing the signs of over-stress and following a few "stress management" tips:

- Don't "bottle-up" anxieties. Find an outlet such as hobbies or an exercise routine. Exercise is one of the best activities for coping with stress as long as it is not competitive. Yet, exercise routines are often dropped completely during the busy holiday season.

- Remember good nutrition. Eating right will increase energy and enable your body to better cope with a hectic schedule.

- Simplify things. If there are more Christmas events, gatherings and parties than there are days on the calendar, don't try to make them all. Don't let your family end up seeing less of each other during the holidays than other times.

- Make lists. Use your head and not your back to organize your time. Have a daily list and a weekly list, so you can get things done and still have time for family and friends.

- Help someone less fortunate. Decide ahead of time to do something for someone in need. "Acceptance is the key," Kergosien said. "If you are lonely, donate your time to helping others. If you're already too busy, remember to make time for yourself."

- Plan a special activity for January. Many people become depressed during this month after the holiday season because all of a sudden they feel they are left with nothing. Children who came to visit are back at their own homes. The decorations are back in the closet, and all the excitement is gone. Now is the time to take a weekend trip or to start a new hobby.

For more information on stress management during the holidays and throughout the coming year, contact your physician or Hancock Medical Center at 467-9081 ext. 2270.

Here's to a safe and less stressful holiday season!

Ole Miss grad spokesman for Easter Seal Society

Walt Shinault of Jackson has spent the last eight years of his life working to overcome a physical handicap. He'll spend the next year traveling across the United States telling people that they, too, can overcome obstacles.

As the 1988 adult spokesperson for the National Easter Seal Society -- and the first from Mississippi to be so honored -- Shinault says he will "spread the belief that anyone can do anything they want to."

Shinault is a prime example of accomplishing what one sets out to do. A quadriplegic since 1980, when he was injured while practicing cheerleader stunts, Shinault has since finished his degree in business administration at The University of Mississippi and is a successful stock broker and insurance consultant for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith in Jackson.

Shinault was nominated for the honor by the Mississippi Easter Seal Society and chosen from a nationwide pool of candidates.

As the national spokesperson, Shinault will be traveling about once a month, speaking to clubs and organizations around the nation. In February, he will attend a reception in Washington, D.C. ("I'll give a speech to the President"), and in March he will appear on the national telethon with Pat Boone.

The folks at his alma mater are proud of him too. To show support for his endeavor, Ole Miss plans to raise $10,000 to be donated in his honor to Easter Seals on the national telethon. Donations to the fund may be sent to: The University of Mississippi Foundation, P.O. Box 249, University, MS 38677. Donors should attach a note to their contribution, designating it for the Walt Shinault Easter Seal Society Fund.

CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS TREE—K mart personnel manager Charlotte Hanson hangs another name of a needy child on that store's 'Children's Christmas Tree'. Names were obtained from area churches and civic groups and tags include a child's age and sizes. Persons are encouraged to purchase a gift for the name they select, wrap it and return it to the K mart service desk. Hanson reports community response has been very good, but approximately 200 names remain. (Photo by Janet McQueen)

Watch houseplants for signs of inadequate care

By DR. MILO BURNHAM
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

If our houseplants could talk, the stories they'd tell. No doubt there's a lot said in the presence of houseplants that from a human point of view would be better left unsaid, but these aren't the stories I'm making reference to.

Plants aren't gossips, and regardless of what some plant lovers say I do not support the hypothesis that plants are listeners and do better if you talk to them. I also don't think they enjoy certain types of music and dislike others or feel threatened if you talk about pruning them or approach them with pruning shears in hand.

What I am referring to are the non-verbal communications or signals that houseplants give to which we as their guardians sometimes fail to pay attention to.

Boston ferns are extremely popular plants with Mississippians. If in doubt about this, think about all the ferns you've seen strung up as hanging baskets around porches and patios. Boston ferns are great communicators, once you get them in the house for winter protection. They are not a bit shy. Almost from the first day inside, they let you know they are unhappy by turning yellow and starting the almost endless process of dropping pieces of themselves on the floor.

They don't like the lack of humidity. They don't like the lack of light. They don't like the temperature. My reaction to all this "don't like" is to see how they like spending the winter in the compost pile. Next spring I'll start over with some new Boston ferns which makes the nurseryman happy.

A couple of years ago, in late fall just as the heating season started, a friend told me about some plants in his parents' home that had grown well all summer and on into fall but had suddenly gone sour. The leaves were turning yellow and, while the plants hadn't been moved and their care not changed, they'd taken a sudden turn for the worse. I suggested his parents have the local gas company come out and check the gas furnace. They did, and a small gas leak was discovered. All plants are sensitive to gas and respond to minute amounts in the air by abnormal growth, yellowing or dying.

A Mississippi plant producer the plants he'd hoped to sell for Thanksgiving and Christmas were suddenly falling to pieces. This turned out to be another heater problem.

Holiday cactus that continue to grow and look healthy but don't bloom at all or at the intended time are telling us they've been kept too warm or have been kept up too late at night by light.

What plants are most frequently trying to tell us is that they are being abused. There are all kinds of laws against the abuse of people and animals and laws against the destruction of public property, but none I'm aware of for the protection of houseplants.

The most frequent cause of death of houseplants is overwatering. They are all cases of killing with kindness; something like a cup of cold tapwater twice a week whether needed or not. Wilting, yellowing leaves, brown areas in the leaves or a foul smell coming from the pot are all indications of overwatering.

Pale green leaves, spindly and weak growth that can't support itself, and yellowing of older leaves on plants indicate lack of light. Interior decorators may ultimately be credited for the development of lifelike artificial with a greenhouse full of holiday cactus called to report that flowers and plants, since they characteristically brighten dark corners with the placement of plants and flowers that couldn't possibly survive under such conditions.

Some houseplants are sun worshippers. They want as much sunlight as they can get and thrive in windows with southern or western exposures. Other plants are more sensitive to sun and respond to too much exposure by scorching.

With African violets, shy plants that prefer a sheer curtain between them and the sun, too much sun scorches the plant and causes smaller leaves and shorter stems. It's almost as if the leaves were trying to hide from the sun. African violets that do not get enough light don't flower and have large, thin, floppy leaves on long stems.

Listen to your houseplants by looking at them. Give them a gentle caress with a damp cloth to remove dust from the leaves. You can't take their temperatures, but you can stick your finger down into the soil to check for overwatering.

Before addiction pulls you under, call the Chemical Dependency Treatment Center.

Drinkers, drug users, and their families. All of them struggle against chemical dependency. All meet its frustration head to head.

For each of them, chemical dependency is a fatal disease. And it must be treated like one.

That's why we've opened the Chemical Dependency Treatment Center at Slidell Memorial Hospital.

In this comprehensively designed recovery and rehabilitation center, experienced and certified physicians, counselors, and nurses provide well-rounded treatment, including education and counseling, to individuals and families. Formal treatment is followed by a support program that lasts at least one year.

the first step is cleansing

Treatment begins with our Detoxification Education Assessment & Referral (DEAR). Here, patients enter a process of cleansing, education, and assessment, through which our physicians and treatment team determine the best form of help: Inpatient Rehabilitation, Outpatient Treatment, or another appropriate strategy.

the focus is a chemical-free life

Inpatient Rehabilitation is a 24- to 30-day, highly focused intensive treatment program in which patients learn the steps to conducting chemical-free lives. Board Certified Substance Abuse Counselors and Registered Nurses work directly with patients in individual counseling, group therapy, discharge planning, treatment planning, and education.

relapse prevention follows initial treatment

An important part of treatment is Aftercare. Because chemical dependents sometimes relapse, group and individual education, therapy, and support sessions are conducted weekly for 12 months by experienced Substance Abuse Counselors.

Aftercare involves patients' families, who participate in a recovery program of their own.

strengthening the support system

Family Treatment is focused, in the first week, on educational groups that provide families a forum for asking questions and hearing from others with similar experiences. A specialized treatment program designed especially for them follows. Families receive information about addiction, and the support they need during the patient's recovery.

In the third week, families begin a week of intensive treatment which involves the patient. During this phase, families sort out important issues, assess their situation, and face the effects of this serious problem.

outpatient help for patients and families

Patients directed by our physicians and treatment team to Outpatient Treatment undergo education and therapy sessions on weekday evenings for 7 weeks. Board Certified Substance Abuse Counselors lead these meetings, which may involve the patient's family. Outpatients attend Aftercare for one year.

depend on us, not on drugs and alcohol

The Chemical Dependency Treatment Center is a comprehensive recovery and rehabilitation center that provides a full range of treatment services for the chemically-dependent and their families.

The pull of chemical dependency is relentless. But now there's a team you can depend on to help you stay afloat. Ours.

Friendship Oak DAR

A colonial tea held in the home of Mrs. Robert C. Willems of Parkwood Drive in Long Beach on Saturday was attended by members of the Friendship Oak Chapter National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

Hostesses included Mrs. James R. Thomas, chapter regent, and Mmes. Larry R. Lisenbee, Hazel Erhard, Sidney Ruskin, William J. Gemmel, Philip R. Davenport, R.L. Morton and George Chassis.

A cheerful fire glowed on the hearth, and traditional decorations were used throughout the reception rooms. In a chatty informal manner guests recalled some of the early history of Colonial America where the English established 13 permanent colonies on the Atlantic Coast of North America.

The majority of the gentry, as the upper class was called, had better living conditions and enjoyed more freedoms than any other people in the world. Ladies in that era dressed in elegant costumes with ruffled sleeves, full gathered skirts held out by hoops, extremely low cut necklines. Their clothing and furnishings came from Paris and from London. They carried nosegays of highly scented herbs and flowers to mask the offensive odors where sanitation was lacking.

The gentlemen wore silver buckles on their shoes, silk stockings, powdered wigs, and knee length coats, according to Jane Carson, a research associate at Colonial Williamsburg.

The 13 original colonies were Virginia, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Connecticut, Maryland, Rhode Island, Delaware, Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina and New Jersey.

Informally the groups formed and sipped tea while exchanging choice tid-bits of life during the brief period of "colonial days" which lasted about 170 years and ended with the American Revolution. It was recalled that while there were three levels of society in those days, it was possible to rise from middling or "meaner sort" to higher levels as financial conditions improved. Each colony had a governor who was appointed by the King of England. Colonial society was the most democratic in the world.

Favorable climate and abundance of natural resources attracted many persons to the colonies.

The nominating committee held a brief meeting and will present for a vote when the Chapter holds its annual meeting at 11:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn of Long Beach.

MYSTERY!

Laura and Eddie Poindexter, two retired Americans, are enjoying a visit to England.

Laura has inherited a precious jewel, known as the Wolvercote Tongue. She plans to donate the treasure to the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford. But within an hour of her arrival in the city, Laura is found dead in her hotel room and the Wolvercote Tongue is missing.

Inspector Morse (John Thaw) suspects foul play, despite the pathologist's report that she died of a heart attack.

"Mystery!" presents "The Wolvercote Tongue," a suspenseful two-part beginning Sunday, December 18, at 8 p.m., on Mississippi ETV.

The inspector is an unlikely policeman — a gentle romantic and a passion for real ale, crossword puzzles and classical music.

Repeating grade not necessarily best

If at first grade you don't succeed, try, try again—right?

Wrong, usually. In most cases, trying again is less effective than trying something different, according to the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP) and Lee K. Hildman, an assistant professor of psychology at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Retention—repeating a grade level—the traditional remedy for students who “flunk” a grade, is not usually the best way, according to the 1988 NASP Delegate Assembly, to which Hildman was Mississippi's delegate at its meeting this past summer in Denver.

“The idea behind traditional retention was that the children didn't learn simply because they didn't study,” Hildman said. “Or perhaps they were slow, or perhaps for reasons within or beyond their control, they missed a lot of school. The idea was, ‘We'll retain them in the grade, and we'll go over the material again. If they didn't have a chance to get it then, they'll get it this time.’”

However, Hildman said, some 10 years of research that NASP considered in drafting its position statement reveal that, in most cases, alternative learning methods are called for instead of repeating the grade.

“The evidence suggests that kids do not catch up all that much when they are retained,” he said. “NASP wants children to be given a different way to learn rather than a second chance to learn.”

Alternatives to retention recommended by NASP include individual instruction, remedial services, peer tutoring and special education services. Some school systems offer students individualized summer school training in their particular problem subjects, Hildman said.

The NASP report states that research has not shown retention to be successful, specifically when:

—It is used instead of special education services or to delay those services.

—It is used at the secondary level.

—It is used with students who have social or behavioral problems linked to “developmental immaturity.”

Retention can even be harmful in some cases, Hildman asserted. The NASP position statement also cautions that retention can have a negative impact on achievement and social/emotional adjustment.

“There is a growing fear that retaining kids may be damaging to their self-concept and may predispose them toward dropping out of school,” Hildman said, adding that research on the relationship between retention and dropouts is inconclusive. “What data there is, certainly suggests that that's a real possibility.”

Although NASP doesn't support retention in any case, the position statement says that it is less likely to be harmful when the students involved aren't seriously behind academically, when their self-esteem and social/emotional adjustment are good, or when unsatisfactory achievement is related to lack of opportunity instead of lack of ability.

Because retention decisions are complex, NASP support the involvement of school psychologists in retention decisions.

“One of the things school psychologists are trained to do is to evaluate students who are in trouble, and to help teachers and other school personnel find the best way to deal with them,” Hildman said.

STAR QUALITY

Some say Noel Coward's fictional Lorraine Barry was based on stage star Gertrude Lawrence. Perhaps, for the similarities are striking.

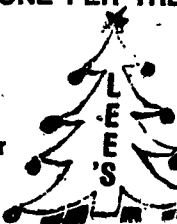

Barry is the central character in Coward's “Star Quality” short story: a tempestuous, neurotic, often malevolent actress when she doesn't get her own way. Much like Coward's real-life sparring partner, Gertrude Lawrence.

This dramatic tale of backstage intrigue, which is being rebroadcast at 9 p.m., Sunday, December 18, on Mississippi ETV on “Masterpiece Theatre,” stars Susannah York as the irascible thespian who fights a running battle with her beleaguered director.
